TEXAS RANGERS ARE UP-TO-DATE OUTFIT

Become a Specialized Crime Detection Body.

Austin, Texas.—The Texas Rangers were organized in 1874 to put an end to cattle rustling, marauding Indians, and the general lawlessness of the frontier Lone Star state. Their hard riding, straight shooting exploits won them prominence in the history of the wild west. But in recent years, with the arrival of automobile and radio, the Rangers declined into a practically useless institution.

At one veteran expressed it: "While crime was traveling at 85 miles an hour we still were back in the horse and buggy days. Crime used to be local; now it is state and nationwide. The lone Ranger who once could track down a cattle thief unaided now may be dealing with a dope ring having connections in all parts of the country."

But now Texas has brought its Rangers up to date again. Reorganization this summer has made the 36 remaining Rangers a division of the new department of public safety. A companion division, the state highway patrol of 140, will take over the former duties of the Rangers, such as guarding trials and suppressing disturbances. In effect the Rangers become the detective division or "Scotland Yard" of the state. Tom Hickman, famous captain of the headquarters company, will be chief of the intelligence division of the public safety department.

For modern detection of crime the Rangers will have a college crime laboratory, a state-wide collection of finger prints, teletype machines reporting all state crime. Furthermore they will have the co-operation of local officers—something more than they have had in past times. Most important, however, is the removal of the organization from political manipulation, public safety commission of three non-salaried men serving staggered six year terms heads the whole department. The present number of Rangers will be on probation for six months before additions by examinations are made.

Business Schools Must Teach Bible and Austrain

Vienna.—Austria's future merchants, bankers and industrialists must know their Bible and catechism as well as how to amass dividends.

One of the latest decrees of the Schuschnigg-Starhemberg clerico-Fascist government requires that satisfactory attendance must be passed in religion before graduation from schools of business, which are conducted by the state.

The proficiency shown by students in explaining to examining authorities that they understand the significance of religion will be recorded on their diplomas. Extension students must take an additional preliminary examination in religion before acceptance by schools.

Dangers for Newcomer Abound on Desert Land

Djibouti, French Somaliland.—The Mediterranean offers fresh breezes and pretty smoking volcanoes to its visitors; the Red sea, conscious of an unenviable reputation, concentrates on sharks and prickly heat. It attins on neither.

Of the two, the sharks are preferable. They swim lazily around the ship at anchor or in motion. They take shy bait thrown overboard, then sometimes quietly bite the line—an inch rope—in two and make off with hook and all.

The sharps eat incautious native swimmers, but they do not come aboard ship. The prickly heat does. It takes up residence on any part of the body.

Methuselah Horse Still Does a Good Day's Work

Halifax, N. S.—Harry, dean of Nova Scotia equines and the "oldest horse in the world," celebrated his thirty-ninth birthday recently.

So far as Haligonians are concerned that's a world record and will continue to be unless some one pops up with conclusive evidence to the contrary. Harry observed the occasion by nibbling an extra portion of oats.

He is owned by a firm of spar and oar makers and still knocks off a day's work now and then just to show the citizens that the years rest lightly on him. His teeth are every bit as good as those of a youngster of twenty.

Skill of Laborer Relieves Sufferers

Lima, Ohio.—Declared to be a mechanical marvel of medical science, a homemade machine that physicians claim will save the lives of sufferers in the advanced stages of disease of the blood vessels, is in possession of the staff of Lima Memorial hospital, a gift from the inventor, Raymond Skelly, forty-five years old, Lima factory worker.

Made from odds and ends, the device cost only 25 cents to build, Mr. Skelly said. He called it a "pressure boot," and doctors asserted it will prove highly valuable in the treatment of arterio sclerosis.

The physicians tried out the device on a patient whose leg was pallid from obstructed blood circulation. In ten minutes the doctors said they saw a healthy pink flush, resulting from renewal of blood circulation in the leg.

Students, Faculty Give Opinions On Italian - Ethiopian War

Hart and Bell See Situation As Serious

Majority of Students Express Desire For Neutrality

The Ethiopian situation has had a prominent place in the newspapers for some time. All college students are familiar with many of the facts about these current happenings. But few do real independent thinking about the moral principles involved, the economic situation which controls national action, or the strategic problems.

The Tiger has interviewed professors on the faculty, who have an interest in international affairs. First we submit the opinion of Professor F. H. Hart. He reviews national understandings and political movements in the line-up of nations who take sides on the question.

"It is generally believed that France holds the key to the European situation. She would like to support Italy but can hardly afford to antagonize England with Germany an ever-present menace to the frontier she established at the end of the World War. Hence she veers to England as the situation grows worse. England's first line of defense her navy is right now in the best of shape for a war, and thus French support will be of inestimable value in her insistence that Italy shall not menace her Capt - to - Cairo frontier where does that leave Mussolini? Largely on the spot that not many will envy. He would be foolhardy to fight with European diplomacy all set against him, but he may have gone too far to turn back.

The issues in the possible war should be the determining factor in the attitude of the United States says Dr. Bell. Shall the United States keep out of the next European—or World—War? To say no without understanding the issue raises for such a conflict is to fool ourselves off in a fool's paradise. To go or not to go to all wars regardless of the future is apt to involve us in difficulties there will be no escape from unpleasantness —perhaps national dishonor—by declarations of neutrality, or otherwise. We are too isolated in our outlook: we should have joined long ago in the plan to enforce peace with sanctions; which we impose anyway by our late Congressional act of February 29 president to forbid all war materials to any combatant—What our economists and statesmen—not our politicians bent on reelection and matters of self-interest—have out revisions of unjust treaties and guarantee every nation the right to live and trade.

"At present we are much jockeying between England and Italy practically unanimously by the League and Italy who is enjoying a season of bold step exhilaration and over-grown notions of revived ancient powers. Both nations give the impression that their life is at stake. Potentially. Without full League support Italy will not undertake to impose sanctions threatening war against Italy, unless Italy invites trouble by waiting at Egypt or other British-African possession. England may hope to make sure that Mussolini confines his activity to Ethiopia and that he thinks over the excess of Fascist energies without a break in relations or in the line-up of Italy with herself and France. Every delay of action by Italian soldiers in Africa tends to make the sides brighter; these fiery gentlemen may find their enthusiasm boiled down to next to nothing.

"One fear of dictators and rulers in Europe may make them hesitate to put so many young men in arms, someone has said, and that is the uncertainty of their views on communism. Hitler has disarmed his most passionate and least trustworthy followers and Mussolini has sent his boys to Africa as far as Italy could safely mustered, thus keeping control of matters.

"To keep America out of war is as much your job, young gentlemen, as it is anybody's. You owe something to the ideal of justice, however. And you must learn to turn to other parts of the newspaper than the funnies, sports and Dorothy Dix columns if you want to know where we are going and why."

Virginia Roads Lead Tourist to Nature

A system of roads and foot trails leads the visitor to the key points on the fields in such a way as to unreel for him in the most dramatic manner the story of these momentous events in the history of the nation. On the Fredericksburg battlefield where General Burnside hurled the Army of the Potomac against the Army of Northern Virginia entrenched on the height overlooking the historic city, December 13, 1862, one follows a self-guiding automobile road along the old stone wall which Lee's men made their stand. At Jackson's Lookout, the Confederate heights at which Lee stood with the humiliated Stonewall Jackson and viewed the field, one finds a modern attractive visitors' contact station where a National Park Service ranger historian is stationed to give visitors the story of the battle through the medium of the terrain spread out before him like a map.

Likewise on the Battlefield at Chancellorsville are found roads and winding foot trails lead the moral Lee's effective instrument was Stonewall Jackson's famous flank march around Hooker's left flank the march which lead to death for the Southern idol. BOOKKEEPER

MRS. P. M. JACKSON, bookkeeper, has been with the office staff of the Southside Community Hospital since November, 1930. She began her duties here following a course of study in hospital work at Bryn Mawr Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa.

For Maria, a happier part of the story is that despite the fact she was unable to pay any of the expenses connected with the operation and treatment, she got well. The total cost to the hospital of this single case was slightly over five hundred dollars. And this case is only one of several thousand that have received free attention from the hospital.

Another case of interest is the one of the little girl who was accidently shot through the lower part of the spinal cord by her small brother. The family conditions were appalling, but something had to be done, so she was brought to the hospital. When she reached the hospital the entire lower part of her body was paralyzed. She was operated on. a part of the spinal column was removed and today the youngster is spry and happy. The actual cost of this case to the hospital was several hundred dollars; to the family nothing.

Accident, illness, all human medical needs are taken care of by the modern hospital. Many are able to pay and do pay the costs of the institution, but many more are restored to their families and loved ones despite the fact that they have no worldly goods. Truly "back to life and health" bears out the record of the Southside Community Hospital.

Free Work Comes To Great Sum At Southside Hospital

Shows Institution's Importance To the Community

Expenditures by the Southside Community Hospital for free work have average approximately $11,000 a year since the doors of this important community enterprise were opened. From the opening of the hospital November 7, 1927, to August 1, 1935, the total cost of free work has amounted to the staggering sum of $87,906.97. This cost has been met in part by the boards of supervisors of several of the counties in the area and the council of the Town of Farmville. These groups has donated a total sum of $48,943.65.

The outstanding fact of the above figures, however, is that despite the donations of the civic groups, the expense of free work to the hospital has averaged more than $5,000 annually than such donations. Because the hospital has continually lived from hand to mouth, and because the amount of free work has grown rapidly in the last few years, the board of directors of the hospital decided to conduct a campaign Oct. 7 to Nov. 7 of this year to raise $5,000 for operating expenses. It is thought that with this amount the hospital can get its budget straightened out and operate more efficiently from a financial point of view than is now possible.

The amount of free work and the total contributions of the civic groups of the hospital area for othe past eight years are given below. The figures for 1935 are for the first seven months of the year.

Provide Family With Winter Meat Supply

The recent rapid rise in retail prices of meat makes a strong argument in favor of the farmer providing his own supply of fresh, cured, and canned meat to take care of his family and farm needs for the coming year.

During the period July, 1934, to July, 1935, lard has made the greatest gain, a rise of 83.8 per cent, pork chops 45.1 per cent, and whole smoked hams 22.1 per cent, Prices of beef have likewise shown an increase ranging from a gain of 26.6 per cent for round steak to 42.2 per cent for chuck roasts. Other cuts and kinds of meats have risen in proportion, making meats an expensive item of the diet to purchase.

If no arrangements have been made to have pigs in your feeding pen to butcher this winter, there is still time to buy feeder pigs weighing 50 to 100 pounds and with good care and feeding they should gain around 50 pounds per month. At this rate of gains they will be heavy and fat enough to make satisfactory killing hogs by mid-winter.

The matter of supplementing the grain ration with a protein supplement such as skimmilk, fish meal, or tankage should not be overlooked since this part of the ration is absolutely necessary to satisfactory and rapid gains.

Many farmers might well feed out a beef to butcher and can late in the winter. Beef cattle are relatively cheaper than hogs. Canning is an excellent method of preserving the fresh cuts

Sluggish Stomachs
Cause Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Bad Complexions, Headaches, Nervousness and Poor Appetite
How to get Relief
In order to tone up a lazy, sluggish, inactive stomach, nothing is better than certain vegetable plants supplied by Mother Nature herself. The human body was created out o fthe earth and every bit of nourishment the body gets come out of Mother Earth. That's why plant life nourishes human life and corrects human ills.
So, go to any drug store and get a bottle of "Conquerine," a time-tested prescription of a leading doctor, compounded strictly from vegetable plants, and no habit-forming drugs. In a few days after beginning on Conquerine, your bowels begin to move regularly; jaded appetite gives way to healthy hunger, increasing your weight; indigestion and dyspepsia disappear; nerves quiet down; complexion clears and eyes sparkle with the glow of good health; you enjoy restful, recuperating sleep and a strong vigorous ready-to-go body.
Don't stop eating the food you enjoy while taking Conquerine; don't try to give Conquerine any help, because it is sufficient of itself. Your druggist will refund your money if you don't feel a decided benefit in three days. Give nature a chance with a natural remedy that is in sympathy with, and agreeable to your system. (Adv.)
